Marco van Walraven appointed ID Logistics Benelux Managing Director

Cavaillon, 28 September 2017 – ID Logistics is today announcing the appointment of Marco van Walraven as Managing Director of the Benelux subsidiaries. He will report to Christophe Satin, the Group's Chief Operating Officer. This appointment is effective 1 September 2017.

Marco van Walraven, 45, possesses over 20 years' experience as a supply chain executive. He began his career in 1997 when he joined Unisys as Inventory Specialist and Project Manager. From there, he joined Adidas as Business Development Manager. He moved on to logistics specialist Menlo Worldwide, working as Logistics Manager from 2003 until 2009, then as General Manager for a global customer covering the Europe region and lastly Director Operations Europe until 2015. In 2016, Marco was named Lean & Continuous Improvement Director Europe at XPO Logistics. At XPO Logistics, Marco oversaw the development and implementation of a European Continuous Improvement strategy as well being responsible for operational recovery of several sites, notably in the retail and e-commerce sector.

Marco holds a specialised degree in logistics, a BA in economics as well as an MBA from Western Carolina University (United States).

In his new role with ID Logistics, Marco will cover all aspects of business development in the Benelux countries, and he will oversee the Group's strategy, operations and customer relationships. These responsibilities were previously held by Vincent Fontaine, who, as part of this transition, will accompany Marco on his missions until the end of 2017 before asserting his retirement rights after many years with the Group.
