ID LOGISTICS AND CASTORAMA CELEBRATE 20 YEARS OF PARTNERSHIP AND EXTEND THEIR COLLABORATION UNTIL 2028

ID Logistics, an international leader in contract logistics, and Castorama, a leading DIY and home improvement retailer in France, are celebrating twenty years of collaboration this year. Initiated in 2006, their partnership has been extended until the end of 2028. Over the past twenty years, this partnership has supported Castorama's supply chain through a continuous improvement and innovation approach.

TWENTY YEARS OF COLLABORATION SUPPORTING CASTORAMA'S SUPPLY CHAIN

Since 2006, ID Logistics has supported Castorama in managing its logistics operations to supply its stores across France. Over the past twenty years, Castorama's logistics network has evolved to address new market challenges. Throughout these changes, ID Logistics has adapted its organisation to meet new operational requirements and store expectations.

Today, the logistics network is based on three regional platforms supplying more than 90 stores.

Over the years, Castorama has progressively expanded the scope of activities entrusted to ID Logistics. Since 2018, ID Logistics has also provided last-mile delivery services to Castorama customers, handling nearly 300 deliveries every day. More recently, this collaboration has expanded to include cycle logistics deliveries from three stores in Paris.

The latest significant development is the launch of the Castorama store on Amazon, which is also supplied by ID Logistics. This new responsibility demonstrates the ability of both companies to continuously reinvent their operations together in response to changes in retail and customer expectations.

Since the beginning of their relationship, ID Logistics and Castorama have placed continuous improvement at the heart of their partnership.

This approach is based on the regular deployment of new solutions designed to improve operational performance and working conditions for employees. For example, the sites are equipped with an autonomous inventory robot, automated guided vehicles (AGVs), telescopic conveyors for unloading containers, as well as an optimised Warehouse Management System (WMS).

Castorama and ID Logistics also work together to optimise transport flows, including truck fill rates, the reduction of empty mileage and flow consolidation, thereby contributing to reducing the carbon footprint of logistics operations. Castorama, which is FRET21-certified, has reduced its carbon emissions by nearly 18% over three years.

A RELATIONSHIP OF TRUST FOCUSED ON THE FUTURE

After twenty years of collaboration, the relationship between ID Logistics and Castorama is built on an in-depth understanding of the retailer's operations, close cooperation between the teams and a proven ability to provide long-term support as its organisation evolves.

Consistent performance, team responsiveness, transparent communication and a constant commitment to proposing new solutions have helped build a lasting relationship firmly rooted in collaboration.

The extension of the partnership until 2028 opens a new chapter in this collaboration, with a shared ambition: to continue developing an increasingly agile, efficient and innovative supply chain supporting Castorama's omnichannel model.

"Twenty years of collaboration are, above all, about the ability to evolve together. Since 2006, our teams have supported Castorama through the transformation of its supply chain with the same commitment: to continuously adapt to its needs, improve operational performance and build sustainable solutions together. The extension of this relationship is a strong recognition of the daily commitment of our teams alongside Castorama." - Frédéric Grenier, Managing Director, ID Logistics France

"Supply chain has become a key differentiating factor for retailers. Faced with the growth of omnichannel retail, the diversification of our distribution models and the challenges of the sustainable transition, we must continuously reinvent our operations. For twenty years, ID Logistics has supported this transformation with the same focus on performance and capacity for innovation. Together, we are building a more agile, resilient and responsible logistics model, serving the customer experience and supporting Castorama's development.
