ID Logistics supports E.Leclerc's offensive in Paris and helps it fulfil its home delivery promise

Cavaillon, 8 March 2018 – ID Logistics will support E.Leclerc with its new e-commerce business dedicated to the Paris market (home delivery and click-and-collect).

At the base for the operation – a warehouse in Pantin just outside Paris city limits – 80 ID Logistics employees will help E.Leclerc's offensive in the French capital. Their mission is to fulfil the commercial promise made to customers by this new e-commerce venture. They will be equipped with the latest-generation WT6000 devices featuring a smart wristband and ring scanner.

The new 6,000m² facility will initially carry close to 9,500 SKUs (up to 12,000), including fruit and vegetables, organic products, fresh produce, frozen foods and dry goods. To meet the requirements of a food e-commerce picking operation, the platform has been built to accommodate delivery vehicles and to handle three temperature levels.

It is perfectly suited to the needs of e-commerce, with great attention paid to ensuring the quality of fulfilment operations, punctuality, product integrity and high-calibre packaging. What's more, ID Logistics will organise and optimise the distribution activities with the various transportation operators selected to guarantee seamless coordination between order-taking and delivery. This smooth coordination will be achieved with the help of E.Leclerc's new information system – TMS (Acteos) combined with WMS (Infomil). The Pantin site will be supplied daily by the new Scapnor platform in Bruyères sur Oise equipped with a complete automation solution set up by the German manufacturer Witron.

Eric Hémar, Chairman and CEO of ID Logistics, commented: "ID Logistics is proud to be supporting E.Leclerc again on its latest venture. For us, this partnership represents another milestone in the rapid growth of food e-commerce, and our goal is to be the partner of choice for the major retail chains. Our teams work hard every day to fulfil the promise of rapid and reliable delivery for our customers' customers."
